

Semiconductors and IT infrastructure are an indispensable presence in modern society.
Tokyo Electron Device is a trading company specializing in the provision of technological support and quality assurance for cutting-edge semiconductors and IT systems.

Electronic Components Business

Net sales : ¥142,076 million (FY2018)
Sales Component Ratio : 88.9%

The Electronic Components Business comprises a trading company business that provides semiconductor products, circuit boards, software and other products, as well as the Private Brand Business, which develops private brand products and contracted development of customer designs and mass production. We leverage our proposal, technical and support capabilities to resolve customer issues.

Computer Networks Business

Net sales : ¥17,764 million (FY2018)
Sales Component Ratio : 11.1%

We handle storage, network and security products proposed as cloud age business solutions. We consistently provide optimized solutions for customers, from installation to maintenance support, through the combination of optimal equipment based on technology verification.

History

